

- Cleveland 24 — Philadelphia 19
- Dallas 16 — New York Giants 14
- New England 26 — Buffalo 6
- Atlanta 17 — Tampa Bay 14
- Pittsburgh 38 — Washington 7
- Baltimore 38 — Cincinnati 28
- New York Jets 27 — Green Bay 22
- St. Louis 37 — Minnesota 7
- San Diego 20 — Kansas City 14
- Chicago 35 — Detroit 7
- Los Angeles 24 — Seattle 0
- Denver 10 — New Orleans 3
- Oakland 23 — San Francisco 10

Sunny, Mild
 Shooting Could Affect Vote — B-1

Sunny, Mild
 Expected High Today, 60
 Sunday Temperatures
 High 59, Low 34
 Other Data Page A-2

GREENSBORO DAILY NEWS

Since July 18, 1909

Vol. 72, No. 309

GREENSBORO, N.C., MONDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 5, 1979

Twenty Cents

Shootout Aftermath: Search For Reasons

BY JACK SCISM
 Daily News City Editor

Two more persons were arrested Sunday as city, state and federal officials searched for reasons behind Saturday's bloody confrontation on a Southeast Greensboro street that left four dead and two critically wounded.

The arrests of Raymond Milano Caudle, 27, and Claude Matthew McBride, 16, both of Winston-Salem, on charges of conspiracy to commit murder brought to 14 the number charged either with that or first degree murder.

A 15th person, identified as Jack Fowler, also of Winston-Salem, was still being sought.

As several law enforcement agencies continued to probe the brief but deadly eruption of gunfire, it became apparent that the confrontation involved organizations with bitterly diverse ideologies.

On the one side were Nazis and individuals who either are or have been Ku Klux Klan members and on the other were radical intellectuals, according to investigators.

All those charged with murder or conspiracy to murder, investigators said, were associated either with the Nazi Party or the Klan.

The four who were killed and the three who remained hospitalized in serious or critical condition all had college and even graduate degree backgrounds.

They were members of the Communist Workers Party, sponsor of what had been billed as a "Death to the Klan" march. The march, however, never got started. Before it could get organized, several carloads of men carrying pistols, rifles and shotguns drove through the narrow street and began shooting into the crowd after the would-be marchers attacked their cars with sticks.

Several of the victims also were current or former workers at one or another Cone Mills plant, which the CWP had heretofore known in Greensboro as the Workers Viewpoint Organization — has had a history of trying to infiltrate and organize workers.

City and police officials Sunday moved to block any marches by the communists on behalf of their slain comrades. They also sought to quell criticism of police for not being immediately present when the shooting started.

During the course of the afternoon: ● City Manager Tom Osborne and Mayor Jim Melvin announced no permits for parades or marches will be issued "until further notice."

● Osborne and Melvin said a detailed review of the events leading to the shooting violence would be made by representatives of city, state and federal governments, with the Greensboro Human Relations Commission serving as the coordinating agency for the report to be made after these investigations are completed.

● Police Chief W.E. Swing and Capt. Trevor Hampton, the district commander in charge at the scene, said the violence broke out seven minutes before police were supposed to be at the parade starting point at the corner of Everitt and Carver streets. This fact, plus the hostility of the communists to an earlier police presence, resulted in police being some distance away when the trouble started, they said.

The decision by Osborne and Melvin to halt issuance of parade permits could

Bolivia Regime Clamping Down To Hold Authority

New York Times News Service

LA PAZ, Bolivia — Bolivia's new military regime stepped up efforts Sunday to impose its authority on the country, declaring martial law and censorship and using planes and tanks in an attempt to disperse opponents.

At noon, two air force T-33 combat jets fired machine guns and rockets over several hundred people gathered in front of the headquarters of the Bolivian Workers Confederation. There were no reports of casualties.

The labor headquarters was machine-gunned Saturday night by soldiers in tanks and armored cars trying to break up demonstrations. Hospitals reported six killed and 21 injured. Other reports said that up to 20 civilians had been killed during the night and 50 injured.

The new military ruler, Col. Alberto Natusch Busch, announced over national television during the night that he had imposed martial law and censorship, four days after he overthrew the legally elected president, Walter Guevara Arze. Congress also was suspended. Under martial law, soldiers are authorized to shoot at will anyone moving in the streets after dark.

The military used the radio in an attempt to end a paralyzing general strike, offering workers full pay for last month, including the days on strike, but threatening to dismiss those who did not return to work today.

"The armed forces will save Bolivia from the intrigues of the communists who want to destroy the working class," said an announcement repeated frequently through military marches.

Soldiers occupied the headquarters of the Bolivian Workers Confederation and the University of San Andres.

The air force attack near the headquarters of the labor organization apparently was an attempt to intimidate the workers who have been supporting a general strike against Col. Natusch for three days. They have announced that the strike, which has paralyzed transport, industry and banks, would be extended at least through today.

Juan Lechin Oquendo, the Workers Confederation's president and leader of the country's tin miners, was reported to be operating clandestinely. He issued an order that the general strike should con-

(See Page A-12, Col. 2)

WVO Organizer Nelson Johnson With Dale Samson (Left) And Signe Waller

Shooting Victim's Wife Says He'll Struggle Harder Now

BY CHARLES BABINGTON
 and LINDSEY GHUSON
 Daily News Staff Writers

Two victims of Saturday's shootings in Southeast Greensboro were medical doctors who lived strikingly similar lives — and who even married the same woman.

Michael R. Nathan and Paul Bermanzohn, both in their early 30s and both graduates of the Duke University Medical School, were seriously wounded in the violent attack between members of a communist group and members of the Ku Klux Klan and Nazi groups.

Nathan was the more critically injured and may not survive.

The two doctors gradually became involved in revolutionary movements

Dr.

Michael

Nathan

Their actions and the events of Saturday have left their neighbors and associates shocked.

The two had been close friends since at least their years in medical school almost a decade ago. When Nathan divorced his wife, Sally, who also is a doctor, Bermanzohn married her.

"We live in a plain little wooden house in a real simple lifestyle," Sally Bermanzohn said in discussing her life with her second husband Sunday. "We live in a working class neighborhood in a working class house."

Her husband, she said, is recuperating from gunshot wounds in the head and arm. She said he told her the government and multinational corporations had hired assassins to kill him because "he is a working-class leader."

She said he passed up a full-time medical practice to become a "full-time revolutionary." Since the shooting, she said, he is more dedicated than ever.

(See Victim's Wife A-7, Col. 1)

Banner On Statue Of Liberty

Iranian Mob Holding Staff Of U.S. Embassy Hostage

The Associated Press

A mob of Iranian students overran U.S. Marine guards in a three-hour struggle Sunday and invaded the American Embassy in Tehran, seizing dozens of staff members as hostages, Tehran Radio reported. They demanded that the United States send the exiled Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi back to Iran for trial, the radio said.

No serious injuries were reported. Tehran radio said as many as 100 hostages were being held, but an Iranian Foreign Ministry spokesman said he believed it was fewer than 45 — about 35 Americans and seven or eight Iranians.

The spokesman, reached in Tehran by telephone from New York, said an estimated 200 or 300 students were involved.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Jack Touhy said it was estimated 59 persons were being held captive and there was no firm evidence the invaders were armed. He said a State Department working group was set up to monitor the situation and added the U.S. government would have no immediate comment on the demand that the shah be returned to Iran.

White House spokesman Alan Raymont reported to Washington that President Carter, spending the weekend at the Camp David retreat, was in contact with his national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Defense Secretary Harold Brown.

The Tehran Radio broadcasts, monitored in London, said the embassy's Marine guards hurled tear-gas canisters at students. None of the broadcasts mentioned any weapons besides the tear gas.

Japan's Kyodo news service reported from Tehran that the invaders called a news conference in the embassy com-

(See Iran Mob A-5, Col. 1)

Winston-Salem Nazi Leader Ronald Wayne Wood

Race To Heat Up As Brown, Kennedy Launch Candidacies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts to wrest the 1980 Democratic nomination away from President Carter get under way in earnest this week as two challengers — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown — formally declare their candidacies.

Kennedy goes first, with an announcement scheduled for Wednesday in Boston's Faneuil Hall. His declaration will be followed on Thursday by Brown's announcement at the National Press Club in Washington.

Both candidates will then hit the campaign trail with appearances scheduled for New Hampshire and Massachusetts, two early primary states.

President Carter will announce his candidacy for a second term on Dec. 4.

Meanwhile, the scramble for the Republican nomination is also heating up, with the unexpected strong showing over the weekend by George Bush in a straw vote at a Republican forum in Maine.

Bush received 466 votes, outpolling Senate Minority Leader

Howard Baker of Tennessee, who received 426 votes, and former Texas Gov. John Connally, who got 236 votes.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, usually considered the front-running candidate among Republicans nationwide, came in a distant fourth, picking up only 95 of the votes cast by the Maine Republicans. Reagan plans to declare his candidacy on Nov. 13.

Kennedy warmed up for his formal announcement by campaigning over the weekend in upstate New York and in West Virginia — a state whose 1960 primary he credited with putting his brother John Kennedy on the road to the White House.

In speeches in both Charleston, W. Va., and Buffalo, N.Y., Kennedy focused his attack on Carter administration energy policy, especially the president's support of lifting price controls from oil and natural gas.

Brown had planned to make his announcement later in the year, but moved it up because campaign officials were unhappy with all the media attention that the Kennedy campaign had been receiving, according to campaign manager Tom Quinn.

Index

	Section	Page
Ann Landers	A	10
Bridge	A	10
Business & Finance	A	8
Classified	B	8-15
Comics	A	15
Crossword Puzzle	A	15
Editorials	A	4
Obituaries	B	2
People In The News	A	12
Sports	B	4-8
Tar Heel Living	A	11-12
Theaters	A	12
Television	A	14
Weather	B	2

Today's Chuckle

If popular songs indicate national character, we're in bad shape.

Nazis As Well As Klansmen Had Role

BY STAN SWOFFORD

American Nazis as well as members of the Ku Klux Klan participated in the shootout here Saturday that left four anti-Klan demonstrators dead and 10 wounded, two of them critically.

Fourteen men have been charged under multiple first-degree murder warrants and conspiracy to commit murder and two more are charged only with conspiracy to commit murder.

Law enforcement officers said Sunday all those charged with murder or conspiracy to commit murder are either members of some Ku Klux Klan group or the National Socialist Party, which is an outgrowth of the American Nazi Party.

One of those arrested was Roland Wayne Wood, 34, of Winston-Salem, chief of the Fourth County unit of the National Socialist Party and one of the leaders of the so-called storm troopers, the paramilitary arm of the Nazi organization.

Rayford M. Caudle, also a member of that group, sued himself in to Winston-Salem police Sunday afternoon. He was charged with conspiracy to commit murder.

Both federal and state law enforcement officers were searching late Sunday for Jack Fowler on charges of murder and conspiracy to commit murder. Fowler is a Nazi and storm trooper, according to

(See Nazis A-5, Col. 1)